

Introducing “Book & Claim”

Why is Book & Claim important?

The use of Sustainable Aviation Fuel (SAF) is the preferred method for emission reductions within the business aviation community. However, given the relatively limited availability of SAF at this time, the industry is pursuing innovative measures to augment or stand in for using SAF, including Book & Claim.

What is Book & Claim?

Book & Claim is a transactional process which gives a purchaser (“Purchaser A”) the option to buy SAF that is not physically available at a preferred location but is consumed somewhere else, “or Booked,” by another purchaser (“Purchaser B”).

The “Claim” portion of this transaction is “Purchaser A” realizing the environmental benefit or credit associated with SAF.

How can a purchaser use the environmental benefits?

The environmental benefits associated with the renewable portion of the SAF blend can be claimed by the operator against compliance requirements, greenhouse gas inventory reporting, or in combination with other environmental impact reduction measures.

Who can assist with Book & Claim?

Book & Claim is an important tool that can be used while producers develop a critical mass of SAF, and suppliers make it more available. To learn more about SAF Book & Claim and how it can work to meet your needs, please contact your fuel supplier or preferred FBO.

Basic Process Flow of Book & Claim

About Us

The Business Aviation Coalition for Sustainable Aviation Fuel, developed by a coalition of international aviation organizations, was created, first, to address a “knowledge gap” on the availability and safety of SAF and, second, to advance the proliferation of alternative jet fuels at all the logical touchpoints: the manufacturers, the ground handlers and the operators, at the regional, national and international levels.

